

28th Feb 2024

Nifty Outlook:

The index has been navigating on the upside to scale newer ATH levels post taking the support near the 50-Day EMA. However; FII activity has been on a slightly muted note since the sell off that was witnessed during the end of January series. In cash segment, the bias continues to remain bearish as FII's have been selling consistently. However, in the index futures front, they have been unwinding the short positions as their bias has become neutral. On 27th February; 7,271 long contracts were added compared to the addition of 5,176 short contracts in index futures. The long/short ratio has improved from the lows of 22% to 46%; indicating unwinding of short positions. However, on the index options front, the bias has been dynamic in nature as FII's have now added significant call shorts at higher levels and at the same time have added more put longs; when combined together indicates a bearish outlook. To conclude, the data is still neutral from FII's point of view now. Option data is indicating further momentum is likely to continue as long as the index does not dose below 22,000 levels.

Weekly Expiry Point of View:

Option chain data this weekly/monthly expiry is indicating a trading range of 22,000-22,300 zones. On the call side, 22,300 is the strike with highest OI. Majority of call writing was witnessed at this level; indicating resistance. On the put side, 22,000 is the strike with highest OI. As per the data, net call-put writing is indicating a bearish stance from the FII's. They have added call shorts at higher levels; resulting in resistance for the index to move upwards. Further momentum is likely to continue if the index does not breach 22,000 levels. Advisable to buy on dips.

Strategy:

The sentiment on Nifty is neutral. Hence, the strategy can be deployed via a short strangle.
